

What is the best way to donate to ISR?

We are spoiled for choice when it comes to investing these days; checks, cash, credit cards, stocks, online payment systems such as PayPal or Venmo, retirement distributions... that's just to name a few!

So, it can be confusing when it comes to choosing the best for your non-profit. How can I make sure my dollars are going straight to where they are needed most?

We can help you here: donating by bank account – an electronic funds transfer – is by far the least expensive method of payment in terms of fees. This means that your donation stretches further, putting your contribution to work to its full potential.

Setting up a monthly, quarterly or yearly donation also means we can count on you, allowing us to forward plan and spend less on asking for funds each year. We can cut down on administrative and communication costs, and instead invest your donation straight back into our island community.

Need more reasons? Your contribution gets to where it is needed faster! There is no waiting for checks to be cashed, no credit cards declined because they have expired, no extra processing fees. Just a direct route from your generosity to happy, thriving communities.

Ready to make that switch?

To start making a recurring donation from your checking account, simply follow these 5 easy steps:

1. Go to our donation webpage at <https://senior-resources.org/donate/>

2. Choose the amount you would like to donate; you can choose from our suggested donation amounts or put your own number in the box. Then select how frequently you would like to invest this amount by using the arrow button. You can choose to give once a year, quarterly, or monthly.
